It presents, in its true first -edition format, "the child: a photographic trial." Mad about the Boy. The photography book Classic (of the day of 1960) that has never been overcome. "There is childhood, that fleeting moment of innocence and joy, abandoned Here are hoasty children, lush and irrepressible children in the flower of you.Magic of the golden years of childhood. These amazing images represent children who flex their minds and muscles, delighting in themselves and in the world over them" (Georges St. Martin and Ronald C. Nelson). The photographs capture Herbert's poetry and sensuality and evoke the most explicit - and really cool, Will McBride's work. "You are a human child, my young friend. A human child, or so glorious for being a human child! "(Charles Dickens). An absolute title" essential "for collectors of photography books. This title is a classic book cult of photography. As far as we know, this is the only copy of the First Hard/First Print Cover (1964) available online and is in especially good conditions: clean, sharp and bright. It is a meticulous copy of private collection well-kept and carefully stored, the most beautiful one we have ever seen. Please. Note: Copies available online have very serious defects ("very well") or are found in multiple subsequent prints. This copy does not have missing pages, or adhesive pages, is not dirty, stained, marked, wrinkled, folded or disfigured in any way. A weird copy like that. 400 plaques of gravity and color. Some of the most brilliant photographers in the 20th century. A good collectible copy. (See also other Will McBride titles in our catalogue). No. Condition: Wie Neu.
